Radical Philosophy Review provides a forum for activist scholars, community activists, and artists to explore concepts central to the humanistic transformation of society. The journal features original articles, special discussions, and reviews of interest to those who share the view that society should be built on cooperation rather than competition, and that social decision-making should be governed by democratic procedures. The journal also publishes special issues devoted to topics of particular social or political importance.

Radical Philosophy Review is owned by the Radical Philosophy Association, a not-for-profit organization. RPR is indexed in the Philosopher's Index, Academic Search Premier, Alternative Press Index, Current Abstracts, Humanities International Index, International Bibliography of the Social Sciences, MLA International Bibliography, International Bibliography of Periodical Literature, and the International Bibliography of Book Reviews of Scholarly Literature.

The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences at Butler University provides financial support for the publication of the RPR.
